Introduction

- A very brief biography of J.R.R. Tolkien
- Tolkien's purpose in writing The Lord of the Rings

John Ronald Reuel Tolkien

- January 3rd, 1892 – September 2nd, 1973
- Faith life: Roman Catholic from age 8
- Loved to invent languages:
 - Animalic, Nevbosh, Naffarin
- Soldier (2nd Lt) in World War I, trench warfare in France

John Ronald Reuel Tolkien

- Husband to Edith
 - ‘Edith and Ronald took to frequenting Birmingham teashops, especially one which had a balcony overlooking the pavement. There they would sit and throw sugarlumps into the hats of passers-by, moving to the next table when the sugar bowl was empty... With two people of their personalities and in their position, romance was bound to flourish. Both were orphans in need of affection, and they found that they could give it to each other. During the summer of 1909, they decided that they were in love.’ (Humphrey Carpenter, Biography, p.40)

John Ronald Reuel Tolkien

- Devoted husband and father
- Professor of Anglo-Saxon at Oxford, 1925 – 1945
- Professor of English Language & Literature, 1945 – 1959
- “Father of modern fantasy literature”
- “Author of the century”

Tolkien's Purposes in Writing LOTR

- A story that anchors words (philology and literature)
- A myth for England (mythology)
- A “Hebrew Bible” for pre-Christian England (missiology)

Tolkien's Purposes in Writing LOTR

- A story that anchors words (philology and literature)
 - Dwarf (dwarves): dweorgh (Old English), dvergr (Old Norse), twerg (Old High German) dvaivrs (Gothic)
 - 'Gandalph' vs. 'Gandalf'
 - Elvish

ELVISH (TENGWAR)

Tolkien's Purposes in Writing LOTR

- A myth for England (mythology)
 - The earliest Anglo-Saxon literature is Beowulf (7th century), already influenced by Christianity
 - What could a pre-Christian Anglo-Saxon literature have been like?

Tolkien's Purposes in Writing LOTR

- A myth for England (mythology)

He took from the box a small sword in an old shabby leathern scabbard. Then he drew it, and its polished and well-tended blade glittered suddenly, cold and bright. 'This is Sting,' he said, and thrust it with little effort deep into a wooden beam. 'Take it, if you like. I shan't want it again, I expect.'

Frodo accepted it gratefully. (FotR, bk.2, ch.3)

Tolkien's Purposes in Writing LOTR

- A “Hebrew Bible” for a pre-Christian world (missiology)

- Augustine of Canterbury in 597 AD, in Kent, preaching to King Aethelbert, king of the Anglo-Saxons, the first English king to become a Christian
- Tolkien was imagining Christian mission to the English

Tolkien's Purposes in Writing LOTR

- A “Hebrew Bible” for a pre-Christian world (missiology)
 - “Tolkien insisted that the fact that he was “a Christian (which can be deduced from my stories), and in fact a Roman Catholic,” was the most important and “really significant” element in his work.’
 - Joseph Pearce, Why Tolkien Says,
<http://www.catholiceducation.org/articles/arts/alo161.html>
 - What allusions or patterns would a Christian missionary have worked with?

Tolkien's Purposes in Writing LOTR

- A “Hebrew Bible” for a pre-Christian world (missiology)
 - March 25th, Self-Sacrifice, and Frodo
 - “But in Gondor the New Year will always now begin upon the twenty-fifth of March when Sauron fell, and when you were brought out of the fire to the King.” (RotK, bk.6, ch.4)
 - March 25th, Self-Sacrifice, and Jesus
 - “In Anglo-Saxon belief, and in European popular tradition both before and after that, March 25 is the date of the Crucifixion.” (Tom Shippey, The Road to Middle-Earth)

Tolkien's Purposes in Writing LOTR

- A “Hebrew Bible” for a pre-Christian world (missiology)
 - The Resurrected Gandalf
 - At last Aragorn stirred. ‘Gandalf!’ he said. ‘Beyond all hope you return to us in our need! What veil was over my sight? Gandalf!’ (TT, bk.4, ch.5)
 - The Resurrected Jesus
 - ^{24:15} While they were talking and discussing, Jesus himself approached and began traveling with them. ¹⁶ But their eyes were prevented from recognizing him... ³¹ Then their eyes were opened and they recognized him; and he vanished from their sight. (Lk.24:13 – 32)

Tolkien's Purposes in Writing LOTR

- A “Hebrew Bible” for a pre-Christian world (missiology)
 - Aragorn as King
 - But when Aragorn arose all that beheld him gazed in silence, for it seemed to them that he was revealed to them now for the first time. Tall as the sea-kings of old, he stood above all that were near; ancient of days he seemed and yet in the flower of manhood; and wisdom sat upon his brow, and strength and healing were in his hands, and a light was about him. And then Faramir cried: ‘Behold the King!’ (RotK, bk.6.ch.5)
 - Jesus as King
 - I kept looking in the night visions, and behold, with the clouds of heaven, One like a Son of Man was coming, and He came up to the Ancient of Days and was presented before Him. And to Him was given dominion, glory and a kingdom (Daniel 7:13 – 14)
